Meet Our Summer Students

Each summer here at the Global Perspectives Office (GP), we enjoy working closely with a new group of interns and fellows. This summer's diverse group includes six UCF students and a rising senior from Bishop Moore Catholic High School. Their interests vary from improv to combating human trafficking. Collectively, this global group has visited Japan, Greece, Spain and the Caribbean, and speaks Spanish, Italian, Russian and French.

Our team of students compiles weekly news briefs about a geographic region or international issue such as diplomacy or the environment and global climate change. They author weekly updates about their subject area which you can read on our student blog. To learn more about our Summer 2018 student team, click here. If you want to join our team for a future semester, check out the available opportunities listed to the left!

Connecting with India's Experts

This summer, Team GP had the unique opportunity to meet with two delegations of experts from India. In May, we welcomed a group focused on space cooperation, which included two professors, a scientist and a member of the news media. They met with India Center co-chairs John C. Bersia and Dr. Kerstin Hamann, as well as other engaged members of the UCF and Central Florida community.

This month, we welcomed another delegation concerned with combating trafficking and gender-based violence. They represented a variety of sectors from around India, including law enforcement, media and non-governmental organizations. Over lunch, the visitors learned about UCF's Center for the Study of Human Trafficking and Modern Slavery and the India Center, and we learned about their respective concerns.

On the value of these connections, Bersia noted, “Whether we are striving for safer, more secure communities or reaching for the stars, our new friends from India reminded us of our common goals.”

The visits were facilitated through the World Affairs Council of Central Florida, a local non-profit organization that brings international visitors to Orlando as part of the State Department’s International Visitor Leadership Program.
